RUN NO 1 : Garth and Lorry Berg

The inaugural run - set by Master Hashman 'Hoarse' Berg advised and assisted by Garth Vader provided just the right blend of clean cane running, a steady supply of welcome checks and a few crafty false trails. Despite good calling generally, the ON ON at the fourth check very nearly lost us John Becker. The lack of concern demonstrated by the pack as the next downhill stretch was taken at a gallop, was not altogether sporting. Only the fact that a steep incline followed, which had all but Steve Evans (Clubfoot?) down to a crawl, saved his bacon!

Danny Rowbotham was now prominent upfront (perhaps someone should have a word with him?!) and showing some fine anticipation of the hares tactics. Adoons Dixon was also puffing well and showing that Sunday's Hashathon hadn't done him any harm.

The hare's decision to turn the trail for home was finely judged and brought the pack in just on the 40 minute mark. For the benefit of those mean bastards that tried to wind me by getting me to explain the origins of Hash during the run ... it was a crazy man named Gisbert, one of the 'inmates' of the 'Hash House', (a mess conveniently situated near the Selangor Club in Kuala Lumpur, where apres Hash boozing scenes became famous) that first put Hash on the road - or perhaps one should say - off the road - some forty three years ago. Durban Hash is probably unique amongst the +- 250 Hash Clubs around the world, in that Trails are usually pre-set rather than a 'chase the hare' situation. Its up to the hare to elect which method he prefers.

P.S. For more info on Hash - buy this month's S.A. Runner Magazine at C.N.A. Its all there!
