Run No. 31 - DANNY ROWBOTHAM.

Off old North Coast Road, along Effingham Road to bottom, across bridge over outer ring road. Look out for car park on left hand side.

DATE: WEDNESDAY, 14th APRIL, 1982. TIME: 5.15 p.m. for 5.30 p.m.

Run No. 30 - KEN REARDON:

5.30 p.m. and no Reardon. 5.40 p.m. and still no Reardon. The Pack decides it must be a chase so we locate paper and off we go. A great deal of hooting and spinning tyres r pping up the Northlands rugby field announces the arrival of our Hare who informs us that we have located the run in, so we all set off in the opposite direction, sans the bearded Smith who has by now disappeared up Hoylake Drive. By this stage the wise Northlands bar flies have gathered on the verandah and with a great deal of amusement tried to figure out what these obviously demented fools calling ON ON at regular intervals are actually trying to achieve.

Eventually we actually left the Northlands grounds and the trail led up to Beachwood School where a disgusted Smith, who was returning home after losing the trail, rejoined us. It had been feared that Kenny would lead us on a tour of his old hunting grounds and this proved to be true - up and down the Beachwood Golf Course, through typically dense Reardon bush, along the beach past some very cosy looking passion pits and finally up to Virginia Airport. Exhaustion had by now descended on a few Hashers and Dixon Snr. and Clarke were restrained trying to skulk off up Fairway while the trail led further away down to Virginia circle. Anyone who had thought that a Reardon run would be short and sweet was finally disillusioned when the Hare was seen heading up Margaret Mayton Avenue towards more bush, and Dixon, Clarke, McGregor and others made their final break back towards Northlands. Contrary to what has been said, your Scribe joined this group only because he felt they may get lost. The last that can be recorded of the main group was the screams echoing through the night from the famous Northlands bush and the fact that many beers had been settled by the time they arrived at the finish.
